Mrs. Rene Bache gave a tea yesterday in honor of her sister, Miss Susan Deyton Biddle, and her sister-in-law, Miss Edythe Bache of Philadelphia. Mrs. Bache was assisted in receiving by Miss Eleanor Tyler, Miss Mattie Scott, Miss Virginia Phoebe, Miss Constance Biddle, and Miss Violet Biddle. The house was tastefully decorated with American Beauty roses.

Mrs. H. J. Rellly, widow of the late Captain Rellly of the Fifth Artillery, will present her daughter Margaret to society at a tea at Rauscher's tomorrow afternoon.

Weddings.

The most interesting wedding that has taken place this winter was that of Miss Henrietta Bates, eldest daughter of the Paymaster General of the Army and Mrs. Bates, to McKee Dunn, McKee, which took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., a classmate at Yale and an intimate friend of Mr. McKee. In the music room of the Bates residence.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin with yoke and sleeves of old rose point lace. Her tulle veil was caught with sprays of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley. Her sister, Miss Ella Bates, who acted as maid of honor, wore a charming costume of white tulle and lace. Her hair was dressed with a small wreath of pink roses, and she carried pink roses in her hands.

The matrons of honor were Mrs. M. E. Olmsted and Mrs. William Mansfield Scudder, of New York. The bridesmaids were Miss Story, of Boston; Miss Carolyn, of San Francisco; Miss Henrietta Whitney, of New Haven, and Miss Mildred Barnes, of New York. The matrons of honor and the bridesmaids were dressed alike in frocks of white tulle trimmed in lace and pale green ribbons. They wore wreaths of pink rosebuds in their hair, and carried large bouquets of pink roses.

The wedding ceremony, to which only a few people were asked, was followed by a reception, which was attended by all the society people in town. The lane for the bridal party was marked by white ribbons held by the ushers. Lanier McKee acted as his brother's best man. The groomsmen were David R. McKee, Jr., younger brother of the bridegroom, E. Brinckerhoff Thorne, Samuel Thorne, James B. Neale, Robert D. Wrenn, and D. Edward Trudeau, Jr., all of New York. Ushers were Harry Fisher, Redmond Crowe, James Darrach, James Terry, Allen Hervey, Frederick R. Swift, and H. H. Henry, of New York, and Alexander Brown, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Bates' toilet was of gray panne velvet richly trimmed with lace, and Mrs. McKee wore a charming costume of gray crepe de chine.

Miss Edith V. Riggles, daughter of Richard Riggles, was quietly married at the home of her parents, 25 D Street, southeast, Christmas night, to Thomas F. Coghlan, of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Coghlan left for New York, where they will make their future home at 56 East Ninety-eighth Street.

Among the cut of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. McKee, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry, and Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Henry, of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bliss and Miss Barnes, of New York.

After the reception a supper was served to the bridal party and out of town guests. An informal dance took place in the evening.

Mrs. McKee was born in the Lone Star State, hence the nickname of Texas by which her intimate friends call her. She made her debut four years ago and is one of the most winning and charming young women in society. Both she and her sister are widely traveled and have not only passed several years in Europe, but made a tour of the Orient with their father last year.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee have known each other from childhood, and their engagement is one of long standing. Mr. McKee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David R. McKee and was a member of the class of 1896 at Yale. He is a brilliant fellow and was popular at college.

After the ceremony yesterday Mr. and Mrs. McKee went directly South and will pass the remainder of the season in Florida, where Mr. McKee has taken a house.

Miss Ruth Henderson, a daughter of Isaac Henderson, formerly of New York, but now of London, was married on November 27 in Rome to the Hon. Walter Lindsay, of London. Mr. Henderson is an author of note and wrote "The Playmate," "Agatha Page," and the play, which had a great success in London and New York, where John Drew took the principal part, "The Mummy and the Humming Bird." Mr. Henderson has lived in London, where he has a charming house at South Kensington, for the past fifteen years, and his two daughters were educated abroad.

Engagements.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Norton, of Louisville, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie St. John, to Lieut. Kenneth G. Castleman, U. S. N.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mary Cornelia Terrell, of San Antonio, Tex., to Major Frank R. Keefe, medical department, U. S. A. Miss Terrell is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Terrell and the granddaughter of Col. Charles M. Terrell, U. S. A., retired.

The engagement is announced of Miss Beatie de Wolf Ward, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Ward, and Edwin Allen Stebbins, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hamlin Stebbins, of Rochester, N. Y.

Col. and Mrs. C. A. Woodruff announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Louise Woodruff, to Roger Williams, of Colorado. Army circles will be widely interested in the announcement. Colonel Woodruff is one of the best known officers in the service, and Miss Woodruff has a host of friends in the army and out of it. The wedding, which will probably take place at the Occidental Hotel in February, will be a very quiet one.

Balls.

The Monday Evening Dancing Class will hold its first meeting at Rauscher's tomorrow night, which will christen the new ballroom Mr. Rauscher built last summer. The patronesses are Mrs. William S. Cowles, Mrs. Postlethwaite, Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page and Miss Keane. These dances are arranged in the interest of the younger element of society and one will be given every two weeks until February 9.

The following evening, Mrs. Charles E. Seymour will give a ball in honor of her daughter, Elsie.

Mrs. Postlethwaite will celebrate the going out of the old year by a ball for her daughter, Carolyn, for whom she has been giving a series of small dinners.

Notes.

Mrs. Draper, wife of the former American ambassador to Italy, is one of the most notable hostesses and one of the most influential women in Washington. She is the daughter of William Preston, of Kentucky, who represented his State in Congress from 1852 to 1855, and is a true daughter of the Blue Grass State, tall, handsome, distinguished in bearing, with much aplomb and brilliancy. When her husband was ambassador to Italy, she made the American embassy the chief social center at the Italian capital, and her magnificent gowns and wonderful jewels were the talk of the Continent. Mrs. Draper is devoted to society, and no one better understands the art of entertaining. She is not only possessed of remarkable tact, but has the rare talent of bringing together the right people, and is a notable dinner giver.

The new ballroom, which has recently been added to the Draper home, the former residence of Alexander Shepherd, is a spacious apartment, hung with tapestry, and furnished in excellent taste. The family use it as a living room, and it has the inviting air which only the rooms that are habitually used acquire. Mrs. Draper is also a judge of horse flesh, and her equestrianism is handsome, her turnouts and liveries well appointed. General Draper is a son of Massachusetts, a former Representative in Congress from that State, and for many years the American ambassador to Rome. His wealth is unlimited, and he purposes to take a lead in entertaining this winter. General Draper's only daughter is married to Montgomery Blair, the grandson of the Postmaster General in President Lincoln's Administration. Mrs. Blair has a family of small children, and her domestic cares prevent her from taking a leading part in society, but she aids her stepmother in entertaining, and adds much charm to the Draper house by her gaiety and brightness.

Mrs. James G. Blaine is visiting her parents, Admiral and Mrs. Hichborn, at their residence in N Street.

Lewis T. Chapman and Miss Chapman received on Christmas night, when a large number of their friends called. A buffet supper was served. A pleasant surprise was the arrival of Mr. Chapman's brother, from Williamsport, Pa., who came unannounced. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William T. Isbel, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Ricks, the Misses Turner, Tokus, Smith, and Messrs. Brooks, Hill, and Tucker.

General and Mrs. Theodore Schwan, who returned from Europe in October, are again at their home in Twentieth Street. Mrs. Schwan passed last month with her relatives in St. Paul, Minn.

A very enjoyable dance was given by the Golden Rod Dancing Club, Thursday, December 25, at Confederate Veterans' Hall, Eleventh and E Streets northwest. The club will continue its class and school Friday afternoon, beginning on January 9, at 1827 Seventh Street.

Miss Elizabeth Bowen is passing the holidays with her cousin, Miss Bertha Bowen, of Louisville, Ky.

Prince Hugo Hohenlohe, who has been in this country for several months past for the purpose of picking up a knowledge of American business methods, working for a time as a volunteer and without pay in one of the big banking houses in Wall Street, is spending the Christmas holidays with his eldest brother, the Duke of Ujest, at the latter's castle at Slawentzitz, in Germany, where he met the Kaiser, who had just been making a stay there of a few days for the sake of the shooting. Prince Hohenlohe will probably return here in January for another visit. The Duke of Ujest is the president of the Union Club, at Berlin.

When the Congregation of the Propaganda meets, January 19, after the holidays, the filling of the vacancy of the bishopric of Los Angeles will be among the earliest business transacted. Bishop Conaty, rector of the Catholic University, here, will probably be appointed to this post.

P. Stuyvesant Pillot, of New York, whose engagement to Gertrude Hubbard Grosman, granddaughter of Mrs. Gardiner G. Hubbard, has recently been announced, is a member of the Union, Knickerbocker, New York Yacht, and Seawanhaka Yacht Clubs and of the Society of Foreign Wars. He is a son of the late Aristide Pillot, Jr., and his mother was Miss Rosalie Stuyvesant.

Mrs. James Lansburgh will be at home next Monday and the following Mondays of the season.

Miss Bessie Clifford, of Bath, Me., is passing the holidays with her former classmate, Miss Mabel Kaufman, of 1312 Yale Street.

A reception will be given this afternoon from 3 to 5, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Wolf, 1233 Seventh Street northwest, in honor of the engagement of their daughter Sarah to George Saks.

Invitations have been issued for a matinee dance to be given by the Silver Wave Social Club on New Year Day, from 2 to 5:30 p. m., at St. Joseph's Hall, Fifth and H Streets.

Baltimore Gossip.

Rev. Dr. Francis L. Patton, president of Princeton Seminary, will spend Sunday in Baltimore as the guest of Arthur W. Machen, 217 West Monument Street, and will preach morning and evening in Franklin Street Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Selden and son, of Washington, are guests of Mrs. Rose Keech, mother of Mrs. Selden, at Towson.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Freund, of Cantonville, have as their guest Fletcher Young, of Washington, D. C.

The Rev. and Mrs. Daniel H. Martin have returned from their wedding trip, and on the way to their home in Washington stopped for a day at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Crowther, the bride's parents, at Lutherville.

On Christmas day a ball was given to Easton by the Bachelors' Cotillon Club. The committee in charge the ball in charge were Edward Jenkins, Edward B. Hardcastle, J. Harry Covington, Thomas M. Bartlett, and Thomas Hughlett Henry.

Cardinal Gibbons left Baltimore Friday night for Pittsburg, where he will take part in the celebration of the golden jubilee of the Passionist Order. The Cardinal expects to return to Baltimore early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sterrett Gittings will shortly give a series of dinner dances at their country residence, Ashburn, on the Relietown Road. The

COUNT CASSINI MAKES HANDSOME WEDDING GIFTS

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, has recently presented two wedding gifts. The first was to Miss Martha Hoy, daughter of Paymaster Hoy, United States Navy, who on January 26 will become the wife of Pierre Rogestevsky, first secretary of the Russian embassy. It is a magnificent silver amfure two and a half feet in height, suitable to use as a wine flagon at a banquet, an ice water pitcher, or a mantel ornament. In shape it is the replica of the ancient Greek jar or pitcher generally depicted on Pompeian walls as carried on the left shoulder of some mythological female figure.

It is a shape greatly in favor with Russian households of the nobility, and as the ambassador is said to think very highly of his secretary it was selected as an appropriate wedding gift.

The marriage of Mr. Rogestevsky to Miss Hoy will take place at the residence in Washington of the bride's parents in Connecticut Avenue. A priest of the Greek Church will come from New York to officiate. The ambassador will be present with the entire staff of the embassy.

Following the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Rogestevsky will drive to Chevy Chase, where they have leased a cottage in which to spend not only their honeymoon, but the winter and spring. In the early summer they will go to Italy to pass the warm months on one of the Italian lakes, and in the autumn will return to Washington to reside. Mr. Rogestevsky is regarded as a diplomat of great promise, and is especially gifted as a linguist, speaking Chinese as fluently as his own language. He has acted as attaché to Count Cassini for many years.

The other wedding gift of the Russian ambassador is that of a pair of magnificent solitaire pearls set about with diamonds as earrings for Mademoiselle Irene Des Planches, of Paris, at present the guest of the Russian embassy, where her marriage to Mr. Pavlov, Russian minister to Corea, will take place in February.

Countess Cassini's present to her old school friend, the bride-elect, is a pigeon's blood ruby ring, set with diamonds.

This marriage, first set for January 26, has been deferred as Mr. Pavlov, now on his way to St. Petersburg, will be unable to return before some time in February, or it is possible may even have to defer the event until mid-Lent. The Russian embassy will have the main drawing room transformed for the occasion into a mimic chapel with the archbishop of the Greek Church, assisted by several priests from the New York Greek Church, to officiate. There will also come from the latter city a band of singers, who will take part in the service as acolytes and chant certain portions of the long and interesting service.

The parents of the bride-elect with their youngest daughter, the latter to act as flower girl, will arrive in this country in January, and be the guests of the embassy until after the wedding. They will bring with them the wedding gown and trousseau, also some of the splendid gifts already received from wealthy relatives in Europe.

dances will be in honor of their daughter, Miss Gladys Hermione Gittings, who will be socially introduced at the New Year german given by the Bachelors' Cotillon Club. Miss Dorothy Gittings will not make her debut this year.

Bishop William Paret, accompanied by Mrs. Paret, will leave Baltimore about the middle of January for Bermuda. The bishop will be gone about two weeks.

Philadelphia Jottings.

Charles F. Da Costa gave a breakfast to the Radnor Hunt Club at his home, Ashwood, Villanova, yesterday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Benedicks' Ball, one of the most fashionable and exclusive of the society functions of the winter season, was given Friday evening in the foyer of Horticultural Hall. The lavishness of the decorations and the brilliancy of the gathering of smart folk made the ball exceed its predecessors if such a thing were possible.

The eighteen members of the Benedicks, who were the hosts of last evening, were: Edward F. Beale, Dr. Alexander W. Biddle, Henry W. Biddle, George Tucker Bispham, Alexander J. Cassatt, J. Gardiner Cassatt, Edward Coles, Alexander B. Cox, Henry B. Cox, Charles E. Dana, Rudolph Ellis, Charles C. Harrison, J. Dundas Lippincott, Frederick T. Mason, Edward de V. Morrell, John Thompson Spencer, Edward S. Willing, and William D. Winsor.

The faculties of the University of Pennsylvania gave a tea yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Free Museum of Art and Science, Thirty-third and Spruce Streets.
